

Welcome Back

Welcome back. Hi everybody, it's Brenda. And I want to welcome you back.

We are coming to the end of the course, sort of. I will be uploading new content very often. And when I do, I will be more than happy to email you to let you know that there's something new.

Why I Recommend ProductTube

I will probably get into each of the companies I'm about to talk about in more depth, but right now, I just want to cover the companies that I feel you should join because they're easier to handle and negotiate with.

And when I say negotiate, I mean the screeners are shorter.

In this particular company, ProductTube, the screeners are really short. In fact, they're so short that I get screened out within 20 to 30 seconds, which is exactly the way I like it because I want to know right away if I'm going to qualify.

Why Fast Screen-Outs Are Helpful

Being screened out fast is definitely a plus because you know right away with ProductTube whether or not you qualify for the gig.

Also, there's no recruiter call. So once you qualify, then you head out and do the gig.

How to Use ProductTube Effectively

There are certain conditions for this company to be productive and effective for you.

If you are already shopping and you are out and about, then you want to check the ProductTube app to see what they're offering because you might just be in a position to quickly qualify for a gig and then complete it.

The Email Issue

One thing about ProductTube that I would like to let you know — and I find it somewhat annoying, but I've learned how to deal with it — is that they send a lot of emails, but there is not a link to click inside the emails.

At first, I was very confused by that. But then I realized I just have to keep the app open and refresh it.

You cannot depend upon the emails.

When you get emails from ProductTube, it's really just an overview of what's going on in the app.

You're going to see the actual studies inside the app itself.

■ Average Incentive

ProductTube has an average incentive of about $20 to $35.

You will find bigger opportunities in there, so keep your eye out.

Let the Screener Guide You

As I said before, you want to let the screener guide you.

As soon as you click into a study, you're going to see what the study is about.

With ProductTube, you don't really know unless you click.

They will send you emails telling you what the study is about, but again, there is no link to click.

So you want to head directly to the app quickly.

Understanding Demographics

I once saw a study for $250 and got excited, but then I clicked and realized the study was for people outside my demographic and specifically for people who had recently shopped at KFC and ordered a very specific item.

If that's not you and doesn't describe you, then just move on to the next opportunity.

Payment Information

Now here's something about ProductTube that I want to let you know.

I personally don't have a problem with this because I just like getting paid, but right now they only pay out in Amazon gift cards.

You can also use those for Amazon Fresh if you would like.

Stay in Hustle Mode

The tasks on ProductTube come and go very quickly, so you have to be in hustle mode.

Check the app before you head out shopping because you might already be in a store where there is a task available.

You can integrate the task into your shopping trip and potentially earn $20 for an extra five to ten minutes of effort.

Keep the app open and keep checking constantly.

What's Next

That is it for ProductTube.

Go ahead and download it from the App Store, create your profile, and start looking at the tasks.

As with any platform, you want to stay active, stay in hustle mode, and be ready to go.

I want to thank you for watching this lesson on ProductTube.

In the next lesson, I'm going to go over DScout, and I think you'll like this one.

Thank you for watching, and I will see you there.
